MONEY EASY; plenty of money, are the replies we receive at the bankato our inquiries, and the banks are ready to lend to such borrowers as come up to their standard, but the standard has been raised. The selve through which applications for loans are passed, has finer meshes than in days gone by, and the consequence is a plentiful supply of money for those least in need of it; none at all for the borrowers to whom it would do most good. Money is accumulated at the censure of the borrowers to whom it would be marked to make the borrowers to whom it would continue the borrowers to whom it would continue the borrowers to whom it would continue the borrowers to whom it would be marked when the borrowers to whom it would be marked to make the borrowers to whom it would be marked to make the borrowers to whom it would be marked to be pleased to make the borrowers to whom it would be marked to be second in prices of 1/2 to 2/2 per cent. Up to second the borrowers to whom it would be marked to be pleased to the season that the close the marked with an anarrow compass. Within that golden circlet all is serone, but, until the course of business residence, the consequence will be pecuniary tightness, spite of the beasy the present of the consequence will be pecuniary tightness, spite of the beasy times and "plenty of money" of the bank bergal to the consequence will be position of the mayor and bit desire to "pay as we go; "but there is more confidence since that position was known. In consequence of a recent to the consequence of a recent to the present to the es on account of general purposes, interest, etc., must be paid together. A party yester-day offered to pay all his taxes due except that for the Nicolson payement; but the whole was demanded, and less than the whole was was demanded, and less than the whole was refused. Nicolson-pavement terip is now reckoned to be worth 60212. We hear of nothing doing in bonds or coupons. The extract published in the APPKAL yesterday, from a Vicksburg paper, showing the demoralized condition of the Alcorn money and Misclassippi State warrants, brought a suddien "change of mental state" to many who have, for some time past, regarded those securities with favor. Holders would like to unload, but there were no inquirers for Mississippi paper. The recent decision of the supreme court of Arkenass, reversing its former decision and making treasurers certificates receivable for county and city laxes, as well as for those of the State, is sharply criticised by the Arkansas press, and strongly objected to by the corporate and county authorities. The supervisor of Arkansas county have issued a promuciamente upon the subject in which they say: "We believe that the issue of state scrip is at variance with the constitution of the United States, and that its issue from its very inception to the present day has been a cheat, a swindle, and a frinad upon the rights of the State. In our opinion this decision of the supercine court will result, nitimately, in the financial raise of every county in the State."  THE GENERAL MARKET WAS quiet THE GENERAL MARKET Was quiet yesterday, especially in the need portion of it. A resule of corn was made at 76c, and 250c sacks were offering at 75c. Outs were nominally 35c on the landing for maked. Brow was offering at 515 for bulk, and $15 5c for sacked; a small iss said for $15. Command was in good demand, with not a barrel in first hands, and not a transaction on which to found a quotation. The grinders in the west have not sufficient confidence in corn just now to grind and take the chances. If corn declines, loss would result—the strength of cornment comes from the weakness of corn, a rather singular situation. purities in the water, and not the water, that causes these terrific explosions, that our friends at Sandy Hook and Pittsburgh signally failed to reproduce with overpressure. When we find organic substances combined with earthy salts, in the bottom of steam boilers, that are as explosive in the open air as gunpowder, and defective locomotive flues containing analogous matters, that explode containing analogous matters, that explode entaining analogous matters, that explode by concussion with a force equal to dynamite or nitro-giveerine, inacluding violent steam boiler explosions, originating in the mud-drum-like that of the ill-fated Oceanus, I think high time that the quality, as well as the quantity, of the water be taken into consid-eration. We all know something about the pressure of steam, and the resistance of good, bad and indifferent froms. Their force and re-sistance may be measured and calculated bad and indifferent froms. Their force and re-sistance may be measured and calculated with a true mathematical precision; but just as long as the chemical part of the natural sciences as they apply to steam power are ig-nored, we will have terrific explosions. Nitro-genous substances bolled down and concen-trated in steam bollers may be set down as the chief source of the mischief."
